Deed to Stone Mountain Scarp Given City

Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, left, is shown above delivering the deed to Stone Mountain to Mayor Pro Tem. G. Everett Millican, acting for Mayor James L. Key. Mayor Key was out of the office when Mr. Russell arrived at the executive suite, and Mr. Millican received the papers, stating they would be turned over to Mr. Key this morning. The deed bears the signature of Samuel H. Venable and Mrs. Elizabeth Venable Mason, and lacks only two other names, Mrs. Coribel Venable Orme and Mrs. Robert Venable Roper, to comply with the request of the mayor for an unqualified deed to the mountain scarp on which the borough proposes to carve a memorial to the heroes of the Confederacy, Despite an increased deficit in general finances, the Christian education and ministerial relief committee of the Presbyterian church in the United States, in its report released for publication today, shows $818,142.22 received last year in cash and pledges to establish the ministers' annuity fund.

The report covers the year from March 31, 1930, to the same date this year.

In addition to the establishment of the annuity fund, Henry H. Sweets, the committee has sent aid to 510 homes of disabled ministers, their widows and orphans, 16 more homes than were aided the previous year.

The committee, through its department of Christian education, has aided 260 candidates for the ministry and mission service; made loans of $39, the same date the previous year.

TENNESSEE EMPLOYE DEFENDS FEE CHARGE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—
(P)—Throughout a blistering examination today before the state affairs investigating committee, James H. Washburn insisted that he was within his rights in accepting fees from insurance companies as a consulting actuary while employed as an actuary in the department of insurance and in the department of insurance and in the department of insurance and banking.

His contract, which he said was approved by the late Governor Austin Peay and by the then attorney-general and also by the present governor and attorney-general, gave him the right to do outside work so long as it did not interfere with his state duties, he told the committee.

After various committeemen had hammered at the witness for sometime, Austin Peay, son of the late governor, took him in hand and led him through explanations intended to offset innuendoes of some of the quesciation of the United States and Canada, will be featured in a concert to be presented by the Congregation Ahavath Achim in its Washington street synagog on the night of Monday, May 4. States district court here May 11 to answer a series of indictments in which they are charged with violation of the national banking act.

They are: L. B. Holt, president; F. L. Holt, his son and assistant; O. J. May, vice president, and I. W. Arnold, cashier.

United States Attorney W. A. Bootle announced today the cases will be the first called on that morning. They are charged in several counts of five indictments with various violations, principal among them being misapplication and misappropriation of funds. The Sandersville bank, parent of the chain, closed its doors two years ago. The smaller institutions also were closed.

Holt and May are charged in one of the indictments on six counts. A second indictment charges the two Holts on 26 counts. The third charges the elder Holt alone in 26 counts, the fourth charges the former president and Arnold in four counts, and in the last of the five indictments, May is charged in 10 counts.

The closing of the Holt banks affected a large territory in southeast Georgia, and it is expected that scores of people will be in Macon for the trial.

all of these have broken down because they are essentially unsound. The farm board did what it did with the futile hope that it eventually would be able to let out the surplus. It works in theory, but it won't work in practice. Whenever the United States production drops low enough to raise the market price, foreign countries begin production which destroys this effect.

Mr. Bootle and his assistants today were engaged in the preparation of the calendar for the May term of court which begins May 4. A large number of cases will be tried, most of them being the usual run of prohibition law violation cases, however.

SIGMA CHI MEMBERS

"We must forever dismiss the old illusion that we have a monopoly on the world supply of cotton. We lost the farmer last year his world market for a little better than 2,000,000 bales. "This country cannot lose its world market and continue to prosper and expand. Lots of nonsense has been talked to the farmer today. The most palpable is asking him to restrict his production to domestic consumption. If he did this more than 1,000.000 families would be thrown on society when we cannot now care for the ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—Delegates began arriving here Thursday afternoon for the first annual reunion of Delta, the University of Georgia chapter of the Sigma Chi fraternity, to be held here Friday and Saturday. "I am trying to say that in my judgment the only way to help the farmer is to about-face in our tariff system—adopt a liberal trade relation with the rest of the world—and begin a gradual, sensible reduction in tariff

"Don't misunderstand me. This is not an attack on the federal farm board. It's attempt was, of course, a failure. But there is a great service it may promote. It may build up a market at home and it may eradicate forever the silly talk about cutting crops to domestic consumption." Was Joan of Arc Burned?

That Joan of Arc the sainted and enigmatic heroine of Orleans, the fifth centenary of whose triumphal progsouthern textile interests seeking ress through France is being celebrated this year, never was burned at the stake in Rouen is now seriously advanced by a school of historians and investigators.

This school holds that although there was a wholesale burning of herebetween the New England and tics and criminals in the public square in Rouen on that day in May, 1431. the principal victim was another young woman who had been convicted of socery. Sharing the same fate were some other girls and men. Joan escaped. She was pardoned on the understanding that she never would take up arms again, but return to her native Lorraine and lead a normal Joan's martyrdom, it should be recalled, was doubted as far back as the 17th century when a certain Fa- sche ther Vignier, traveling through Metz, came upon a chronicle in the library of that city, which stated that Joan of acter. by two of her brothers. She is supposed to have gone on to Luxemburg, where she married a nobleman named Hermoise. They returned to Metz and settled there.

Other corroborative evidence of Joan's survival was discovered by the The southern railroads are called same Father Vignier. Among the papers of a noble family he narriage contract of the 15th cenbetween Robert des Armoises a Jeanne d'Arc, "called the Maid rleans." These two documents are the strongest two pieces of evidence for Joan's escape from the burning in 1431 and are used by the new investigators to build up their case.

Opponents stick by the ancient historical account that Joan actually was burned and her ashes scattered in the Seine river. The Joans that appear after the Maid's death were imposters, these people maintain. One of these impostes was well known shortly aft-er the Maid's death and was arrested n 1440 and publicly whipped for ob-aining "money and sympathy under talse pretenses." There were other imposters. The most convincing piece of evidence of Joan's martyrdom, however, rests in the fact that she was habil-itated in 1455. The papers dealing with the ecclesiastical board's session that acknowledged the mistake that had been made in the condemnation and burning of Joan of Arc are intact and in a good state of preservation They state specifically that Joan per-ished and describe with minute de-tails the last words that she pronounced both in prison and on streets of Rouen, as she was being led to the pyre. The accounts are swonn to by witnesses. (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

Most of the writers say that while they would personally be disappointed by such a decision they believe so firmly in the need of recovering de mocratic control of the federal power for the general response to the people and they can be trusted to deal with it through their congressmen, without any diction or cerecion through a distinguishment of the federal power for the general response to the people and they can be trusted to deal with it through their congressmen, without any diction or cerecion through a distinguish and they can be trusted to deal with it through their congressmen, without any diction or cerecion through a distinguish and the control of the federal power for the general moderate of the column to mention of the federal power in 1928.

I subscribe to the doctrine of Thomas Jefferson on party loyalty and service. On that subject he wrote to Duane in 1812. "Long Tom" then being ex-president:

"I profess so much of the Roman principle as to deem it honorable for the general of yesterday to act as a corporal today, if his service can be useful to his country; holding that to be a false pride which postpones the public good by any private or personal considerations."

The true course is that when one cannot support his party without sacrificing his conscience he should quit it openly and frankly, and find his place and name elsewhere.

He and his friends would have the party treat prohibition as a have the party treat prohibition as a have the party treat prohibition as a condidate plenty for every truing plenty for every truing plenty for every truing put the suave charlatan never really gave the patient even fair treatment. He did have his office girl, whom he designated "dictitian" hand the patient a stereotyped list of foods and recipes several pages long, and this recipes several pages long, and this help kept the poor woman in what I should call a dirty brown study while her diabetes emulated Ole Man River. The patient lost weight AND strength and it began to look like the winding up of a life. Just by chance some one presented her with a copy of Dr. Duffie's "Book for Us Diabetics." The lady was not without brains, and a reading of the little book opened her eyes to several things. For one thing, she now sought and obtained unsulin treatment. She began to pick insulin treatment. She began to pick Mr. S. H. Venable. I regret up in strength and in weight. She reup in strength and in weight. She re-ceived only one open to most two doses of insulin a day, and some days none. She carefully adjusted her meals to the time of the insulin. She always carried in her handhag an emergency are clause in their deed which is reparried in her handbag an emergency ration of sugar or fruit juice or milk chocolate. Steadily she came back and after some four months of such common sense regimen she discontinued insulin altogether. A few weeks later a test of her blood show-ed the sugar at the normal level. It had disappeared from the urine soon after the insulin was started. it seems reasonable to believe the pa-tient is as nearly cured as may be. Her carbohydrates tolerance at present is apparently normal. Yet even now she thinks only "specialists" un-derstand the treatment of diabetes! (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

It Is a Strange Love That Robs A Young Knight of His Armor

By Robert Quillen — Today I talked with a succeessful businessman who failed at the age of 40 and later recognized his failure as the greatest cause of blessings.

At 40 he had built up a business that enabled him to provide every luxury his family desired. Prosperity and affection combined to make him generous. His two sons, just out of college, had cars of their own and enough pocket money to live free of care. They had no acquaintance with work and were innocent of ambition.

At this stage the father made a few successful deals in real estate, began to dream of millions, and joined the ranks of the speculators in time to share their ruin. Good fortune in the guise of disaster stripped him clean.

He didn't recognize it as good fortune then, but he began to see the first inkling of the truth when his sons came to him and said: we've always leaned on you and made no effort to help out; but now we've got our educations and are ready to go to work, and we want to help you rebuild."

To make it a perfect story, father and sons should be in partnership; but as a matter of fact one boy is an auditor for Standard Oil and the other has a good job in one of the country's greatest banks.

"They made good," said the father, "because they had it to do. And realize now that both of them would have been ruined if I had been ble to continue supporting them in idleness." If nothing succeeds like success, it is equally true that nothing fails

Key Since my appointment by yourself some 15 months ago, I have given much of my time and for the past four months have practically done four months have practically done nothing else. During this time, on the whole, I think much progress has been made. The bitter feeling that formerly existed has all but passed away, which at one time almost brought a division in our city.

"I find among all classes of our people the interest is as keen as ever for this great memorial to be built, which interest not only exists throughout this state but throughout the nation as well; so much so that if this memorial is not built the city cannot escape the responsibility for its failure. "Another thing that impresses me very much is that the time is at hand to turn defeat into victory; it is no time to turn back. All things worthwhile cost something. Are we willing to pay the price that the men did whom we seek to give their rightful place in history, which they so richly deserve? My prayer has been from the beginning that, out of the misunderstandings and heartsches of the past, a great peace would come into out this state but throughout the na

"It has been said that if this memorial is built, Atlanta will become the crossroads of the world. In my opinion this statement is not far wrong. We now have good reason to to Peachtree Battle park and out that direction is altogether reasonable and no doubt would be built by the United States government. This would open up millions of dollars' worth of property in one of the best sections of the city which now brings in practically no revenue to the city or county. With the memorial as the center of the hub, with a nineteen hundred foot clear lake next to the mountain, 300 feet wide, and a beautiful park next to the lake, w. would really have one of the wonders of the world. So much for that. Back to the subject. During all my negotiations, I ject. During all my negotiations, I have been received with great courtesy by all the owners and they have been extremely patient with me; also the attorneys, Hon. John I. Kelly and Hon. Scott Candler, have co-operated to the fullest extent. All are due the thanks of the Chamber of Commerce, whom I had the honor to represent.

"And last, the reason I worked so hard was this: In my mind's picture, I can see the great memorial finished and as our boys and girls, 50,000 in number, as well as the boys and girls from every land, go out and look on the figures of our great dead, Generals Lee, Jackson and Davis, and others, I have a feeling the heart will beat a little faster and there and then nobler impulses will be born and a nobler citizenship will in some measure result. I believe that the ultimate end of life is to be a good citizen. If this is true, we can all afford to work for it, knowing that all who come our way will carry away something to make life sweeter and maybe the world a little better place to live in. "With kind personal regards,

"Your friend,
"LAWRENCE McCORD." "Chairman Parks Committee, At-lanta Chamber of Commerce."

KINDLY

The dictionary tells us that this word means "with kindness"; "graciously." It is clear, then, that in such sentences as "Kindly let us hear from you," and "Will you kindly return the sample," the word kindly adds not courtesy but an amusing combination of English. "Please" is a good substitute.

ORDER HAS GONE FORWARD We are glad, of course, to know that it hasn't gone backward, but it is more forceful to say, "shipped by express," or "sent OUR MR. WHITE

PERMIT ME TO SAY, or INFORM Permission is asked, yet the writer goes ahead without, of course, getting permission. Amusing and stiff, isn't it?

URSUANT TO YOURS OF EVEN DATE Unnatural and antiquated. "As requested in your letter of March 5," is ever so much better.

RECENT DATE Indefinite and careless... Always give a specific date. If, however, a letter happens to be undated, then we may say, "Your letter, received this morning, tells us . . ."

REFERRING TO REGARDING YOUR Weak and ineffective ways to begin a sentence. Their use indicates that the writer is not quite ready to say something worth while, but that he is on his way to do so. SAME (as a pronoun) Normally an adjective. Awkward in a statement like, "Your order came today and same was shipped at once." "Your ordercame today and was (or IT was) shipped at once," is correct.

TATE (for say) Stilted and formal. "In your letter you stated that the policy was lost in the mails," is not good diction. Here the word "wrote" or "reported" could be substituted with effectiveness.

Newspaper Advertising Appeals To Women, Mrs. Ottley Declares

Women depend largely on newspaper advertisements in deciding on purchases they want to make, it was pointed out by Mrs. John K. Ottley in an address before the Ad Club Thursday at the Ansley hotel.

Mrs. Ottley, who is considered one of the outstanding women of the south, was the principal speaker on a program arranged by the femining members of the organization, having as her subject, "Advertising from a Consumer's Standpoint."

In addition to the talk by Mrs. Ottley, the entertainment program was a big feature of the meeting Betty Stanton, chairman for the day, presided in the place of Herbert Porter, president, and with the other women members of the club held full sway.

Appearing on the entertainment program were Marjorie White and Carolyn Price, who are featured over WGST as "Two Shades of Blue." They were accompanied at the piano by Lola Allen Walnee. Grace Perrin appeared in character and tap dance numbers.

The observations of Mrs. Ottley afforded the Ad Club members some valuable information on what they were up against to put their advertising across, and in preparing her data said she had made inquiries of the roomen would try anything once.

City Motor Club Warns Atlantaa And You'll Jump Out of Bed in Of Auto'Rackets'

The automobile "rackets" most prevalent at this time of year are deprevalent at this time of year are de-scribed in a warning to motorists is-sued Thursday by Goodloe Yancey, president of the Atlanta Motor Club. At the same time a method of avoid-ing being mulcted is outlined in the notice.

Fly-by-night salesmen, representing concerns which either do not exist at all, or are not in a position to deliver the services for which the defrauded citizen pays, are the worst, Mr. Yancey believes. They offer, for example, discounts on gas, oil and accessories, coupled with complete insurance and road service. Investigation of such policies invariably brings to light that the agreement contains some seemingly unimportant clause which absolves the organization from any responsibility whatsoever, thus making void the very thing for which the automobile owner spent his Money.

Occasionally salesmen will offer service, and point to a well-known garage in the vicinity as the source of the benefits to be derived. Failure to check such a statement generally results in a loss of the amount invested.

To prevent such practices, the motor club suggests the simple expedient of calling up the local automobile association or club to check the credentials of the representative. If he is a genuine agent, he will be pleased to have his prospect thus establish his responsibility. If he is not pleased, it stands to reason that he has something to hide. The danger in not investigating such people is in the fact that otherwise the motorist will not put to the proof such service until the need arises, which in most instances will not be for several months, and by that time the fraudulent salesman is elsewhere.

Governor's Secretary Loses Car to Bandits

Atlanta hold-up artists are getting to be "particular" about whose cars they use to stage a robbery.

Several days ago they stole the car of Dr. Willis A. Sutton from in front of the city hall and held up a Rogers store.

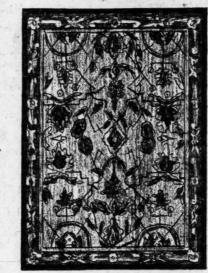

Getting a little bolder Wednesday they moved over to the capitol and appropriated the car belonging to John B. Wilson, secretary to Governor Hardman, who, as secretary of state-elect, will be motor vehicle commissioner in a few weeks.

weeks.
Dr. Sutton's car has been recovered, but that of Mr. Wilson is still being sought by police.

Kept Promises to Arabs.

A number of the promises made to the inhabitants of the desert, said Lawrence, never could have been carried out. At one time, for instance, he said, there was talk of creating an Arab federation.

"On paper this looked all right," he said, "but in practice it would have worked out hopelesslv."

The point was, he said, that vast stretches of desert would have separated member tribes. There could not, he added, have existed proper political unity between tribes who had no telephones, telegraphs or railways connecting their respective territories; camels being the sole mode of transport in the desert.

His struggles to obtain what he wanted for the Arabs during the Paris peace conference, he said, were complicated by Franco-British bargaining. Among the French, he said, Clemenceau behaved splendidly toward him and the Arabs. But in the end. Britain induced France to part with Mosul in exchange for a mandate over Syria which they received at the expense of the Syrians!

At one time matters had reached a serious stage. Lawrence was asked to Eighty perseent of the big gifts for hospital work received by the Northern Methodist church in recent years have been from non-Methodists, he said, and the church philanthropic organizations are consciously striving to interest persons outside the denomination as well as inside.

One move in that direction, he said, has been to select non-Methodists for at least one-third of the places on each

The first requisite of a proper approach to a prospective big giver, he said, is making the project to be undertaken big enough to interest the prospect, and the next is confidence inspired by prayer, that the desired life.

Dr. Davis advised caution in the acceptance of gifts from which annuities in must be paid the givers during their lifetime, especially in gifts of property.

The Rev. C. Q. Smith, of Fort Worth, Texas, told the hospital workers that the "high-pressure" campaign offers certain advantages for hospital financing that no other means affords.

Outstanding among those advantages, he said, is the accruing publicity for the institution and movement which could not be obtained on any other occasion without a certain loss of dignity.

Such a drive also can uncover revenue sources which never could be tapped by "still hunting" he said.

"The one way to arouse in the public an interest that will lead to gifts." Dr. Smith said, "is to admit the facts of the need for money—why it is needed. The same situation that in spires campaign organizations to work will inspire giving.

"There is never an opportune time for a financial campaign. The time to put one on is whenever the need for money arises."

ALPHA DELTA PI'S TO HOLD STATE CONVENTION HERE

Maid of Honor for S. C. V.

80th Birthday Celebrated With Elaborate Program

The Georgia alumnae of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority will hold the annual state convention at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel Friday and Saturday, May 15 and 16. The date also marks Founder's Day and the eightieth birthday of the sorority, which has the distinction of being the first sisterhood of college women in the world. It was founded May 15, 1851, at Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., under the name of Adelphian Society. Of the 800 alumnae throughout the state several hundred members will attend the convention here. It has become an annual event for the Alpha Delta Pis of the Lambda Chapter at Brenau College, Gainesville, to meet with the Atlanta Alumnae Club for the Founder's Day celebration. Lambda Chapter at Brenau College is the only active chapter in Georgia. There are two alumnae clubs, Macon Alpha Alumnae Club, and the Atlanta City Club, which has an enrollment of 125 members, with 16 active chapters represented. The sorority boasts of 52 active chapters in the United States and three in Canada, with representation in universities throughout the north, south, east and west.

The opening session will be held Friday afternoon, May 15, at the Biltmore, with Mrs. Martha A. Bigham, president of the Atlanta Alumnae Club, presiding. Addresses will be given by Governor Hardman and Mayor Key. Representing the Atlanta alumnae, Mrs. J. B. McNelley will give the welcome address with a member of the Macon alumnae responding.

Miss Evelyn Hix, province vice president, from Birmingham, Ala., will be the speaker at the business session Saturday morning. The Lambda Chapter will have charge of the banquet program Saturday evening.

Tate Mt. Estates.

A number of Georgians including a group of prominent Atlantans, will spend this week-end at Connahaynee Lodge at Tate Mountain Estates, which has been opened for the summer season. Both the Atlanta office and the mountain office of the Tate Mountain Estates, which is in charge of E. H. Barnett, at Jasper, are receiving many requests for reservations. The beauty of the mountains at this season of the year is appealing to large numbers who wish to take short vacation trips and indications are that Connahaynee Lodge will be more popular this season than ever before.

"The azalea is becoming more and more beautiful," said E. I won't advise any woman to leave her husband. If any woman were ever to leave her husband on my advice I couldn't sleep at night. But this I do say, unhesitatingly, that no man has any vestige of right to make a drudge out of a woman because she is his wife and if he had an ounce of manhood or an inkling of courage he wouldn't be guilty of such cowardly conduct. But women have to deal with their husbands as they are and not as

After my baby was born he lost his job and took me to a farm to live. I have to do all the washing, the house work, and cooking. In addition I spend long hours in the fields. We are not making a living on the farm and my strength is almost spent. Instead of sparing me all unnecessary labor, my husband insists on wearing white duck pants which I must wash and iron, while he sits around and does nothing, on the ground that he isn't strong.

But women have to deal with their husbands as they are and not as they ought to be. This man has no acquaintance with the niceties of marriage, no appreciation of the romantic mind that is in a woman and no pity for the delicacy of the feminine organism. He has put an educated gentlewoman to doing manual labor of a man. He has sat by on his haunches while she worked so hard that her health and spirit are broken. Then I say she has the right to strike and say to him that she will not do another lick of work beyond the cooking and the cleaning. She has a right to tell him that she will not wash another pair of his duck pants. She has a right to tell him that she never intends to contribute another cent to his support until he has satisfied her that he is doing the maximum amount of work of which he is capable. She has a right to go out, if necessary, and get herself a job that will enable her to provide for her little girl's future. She has a right to make her plans without reference to the selfish, brutal man she is married to. All of this, and more, is her right.

-Mrs. Yellow Wing.

Mrs. Yellow Wing and Flicker sat in the doorway of her house in a telegraph pole in front of Farmer Brown's and sent forth a long, ringing, triumphant call. Yellow Wing, picking up ants in the Old Orchard, heard it and lifted his head quickly.

"I thought I wasn't mistaken," muttered he as he took to his wings and headed for that telegraph pole.

"Mrs. Yellow Wing is over at our new house we were robbed of by those hateful Starlings, and I do believe she hateful Starlings, and I do believe she has got it back." The very thought set his wings to beating faster.

When Yellow Wing came in sight of that pole he saw at once that Mrs. Yellow Wing was in 'the doorway, while Speckles and Mrs. Speckles were dashing at her and vainly trying to get hold of her to pull her out.

"I don't know how she managed to get there," thought Yellow Wing, "but now she is there, they will never get her out again. She must have been watching her chance and slipped in there when Mrs. Speckles left it for a moment. I've wondered where she has been keeping herself for the last two or three days. Every now and then she slipped away and I couldn't find her. She must have been hiding where she could watch those Staring where she could watch those Star-Straight at Speckles and Mrs. Speckles flew Yellow Wing. They didn't see him at all. You see they were so intent on trying to get Mrs. Yellow Wing out of that house that they quite forgot that Yellow Wing might be about. So it was that he managed to strike Speckles a hard blow, a blow that hurt. It sent Speckles fluttering down to the ground. Yellow Wing followed and I fear he might have killed Speckles in the end had not Mrs. Speckles flown to his rescue. She was furious and she knew that it was her own fault. She shouldn't have left it unguarded for a moment but she had, and now Mrs. Yellow Wing. She knew that house was lost to her now and she knew that it was her own fault. She shouldn't have left it unguarded for a moment but she had, and now Mrs. Yellow Wing and gave him no chance to follow up his advantage.

Speckles fluttered away and hid in the grass while Mrs. Speckles fought with Yellow Wing. Gladly would he have joined her if he could, but one wing was injured and he knew that there would be no more fighting for the most effective use of the project in the schools as a whole, and the individual prizes were for the best housand-word papers on "America's Tenth Man."

Mrs. Speckles and Yellow Wing fought until they were too tired to fight more. Then abruptly Mrs. Speckles gave up. Alone she could do nothing. She knew when she was beaten. She called and Speckles answered. She flew over to him. "Are you badly hurt?" she asked anxiously. "I feel better now," replied Speckles. "I think I can fly a little if I try."

He tried and succeeded, but he could make but short flights from tree to ree, and in each had to stop to rest. Mrs. Speckles remained with him talking gently and telling him how sorry she felt. From the door-way of her house in the telegraph pole

In more ways than one Thursday, April 23, was a notable occasion at the ball park. The Mobile Marines, formerly the Bears (before that the Gulls), made their 1931 debut.

So did "Steamboat" Johnson, the bull umpire of the league. David Irenus Barron, the famous Mr. X, produced the first instance of big time base running that has been staged on our field in a long time.

Clarence Waldo (Climax) Blethen hit his pitching stride in manner reminiscent of three years agone.

And lastly the press box has new slip covers.

PAMPERED PRESSMEN.

This last event should be mentioned first because it is by far the most important. The bench on which the great minds of the press sit and watch the game through the netting had been covered with a light tan material warranted to be kind to the thinnest trousers' seat.

The shelf on which they rest their elbows has been covered with the same stuff. On the floor is linoleum for them to play on. All that is lacking is a few potted plants and an orchestra and it might be the lounge of some downtown club.

This summery redecoration, together with free soft drinks and a private parking place outside for their motor cars, makes one suspicious. It looks to the casual glance like subsidization. Hope the Carnegie Foundation does not discover the circum-

MARINES NOT HALF BAD.

The Marines did not play such a swell ball game, but they looked neat in uniforms of grey and powder blue. Milton Stock, one of the many managers who played with the Crackers last year, has the club hustling briskly.

His feat of winning a double-header from Birmingham just before invading Spiller Field shows his entry is no set-up.

Just now the prospects are that the Marines will not be turned out on the mercies of the league this year for lack of success and patronage. They probably will leave last place to some club like Nashville, if any.

"STEAMBOAT" JOHNSON.

Harry (Steamboat) Johnson made his debut yesterday be hind the plate. He wore the conventional blue. So did his teammate, 'Andsome 'Arry Camp-

It was in 1919 that Harry Johnson made his first appearance here as a Southern league umpire. Your correspondent listened to him bellow balls and strikes in that resonant baritone voice and called him "Steamboat" for obvious reasons. The name has clung to him ever since, not because it was particularly clever, but because the Steamer sounds like nothing but a Mississippi river packet coming in to the wharf

The Steamer is the best umpire in the league. Campbell is his straight man and the two of them make an ideal team. Steamboat is "cuckoo," the ball players say. That is their way of saying he is okay. "Steamboat" is a showman. His every move is an histrionic gesture. He gets a laugh from the crowd merely by sweeping off the plate.

As a showman "Steamboat" is worth money to the league at the gate. Now and then he goes haywire and fires an athlete from the park for a mild misdemeanor; and again he lets a player get away with murder if the offense is committed in the heat of battle when all hands are excited to the breaking point. Thus he evens the count. "Steamboat" was magnificent yesterday behind the plate. But today he will be on the bases. That is really where he shines.

Until you have seen him take the inside track and race a runner around the paths on a three-bagger, you have missed one of the sights of the game.

AN OLD SCORE.

Three or four years ago during a particularly tough game when the Crackers were riding him unmercifully, "Steamboat" put Bill Fincher and me off the bench. We were visiting there and "Steamboat" came over in the midst of a tirade from the players and ordered us to get up in the stand. I recall that both of us moved right on out.

After the game I got after the old walrus for humiliating such sensitive persons as Bill Fincher and me right before all

"You heard those birds riding me, didn't you?" Steamer asked. "Well, they were just trying to show off before you two. They hushed after company left." "Steamboat" knows baseball and ball players. And he is not afraid of any issue that ever came up. The old gentleman has not backed up in two decades or more.

Rally in Third Inning Gives Florida Winning Runs.

By Herb Clark.

Well, folks, we go out to the ball came out at Georgia Tech Thursday afternoon and Brad Byrd, the old Gator scrubs, is all smiles on account of Florida wins the fracas from Tech by a count of 4 to 3.

These, now, Gators ain't got much business with the ball game, of course. They win with two runs which scurpy across the platter when "Dub" Waldrep, out in right field for these Waldrep, out in right field for those Tech boys, misses a fly which a guy named Pittman knocks out. Waldrepshould catch it in anybody's hip pocket, but he staggers on by and the ball goes for three bases. This pushes Florida's total on the cash register up to four, which is plenty. TECH GETS LEAD.

TECH GETS LEAD.

Tech was a two-run lead when Waldrep gets lost in the clouds. Both clubs has gone out with ease in the opening stanza, but these Yellow Jackets get to Silsby in the second. McKee is first up, and he lashes a single out which comes so near to undressing Mizell, down by first base, as to give him chills for some minutes. He comes to in time to take Silsby's peg on Farmer's sacrifice bunt, though, the while McKee is stepping down to second. Waldrep wastes a fly ball in left field, but Mathes comes through with a timely bingle and McKee races all the way home from the middle base. Mathes keeps coming and winds up at second on the play. Mizell is still some nervous, though, and he muffs the play on Baker, giving him a life, and Mathes is home by that time.

The third is Florida's frame all the The third is Florida's frame all the way. Silsby starts off with a single and goes to second when Sherrod follows with a try at a sacrifice. It isn't his fault that he doesn't succeed, on account of Fred Holt drops the throw at first, and there's two on. The "hit away" flag is hoisted over in the Florida dugout and Roberts and Mizell let fly, with the result that two runs score and the count is dead-locked, as they say.

Pittman slaps out his fly and Waldrep goes haywire on it and everything's over. Brown and Clark and Bradley are set down easy by "Can-nonball" Baker, but the ball game's gone. Brad Byrd, he's up in the press

BASES ARE FILLED. BASES ARE FILLED.

Tech fills the bases in their half of the third but it's just three more men left on. They go out casy in the fourth. They score one in the fifth, which should be two. Isaaes draws a walk and tries to steal second when the signs get crossed. He's out nine feet. Hogsed taps to the box and is a cinch. McKee slaps a double to right and he scores when Farmer gets him a single.

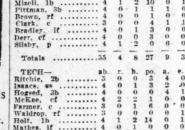

It's a pretty good ball game the kids put on. Roberts, who's the Florida shortstopper, brings the fans kids put on Roberts, who's the Florida shortstopper, brings the fans up in the first chapter with a double play without any help. Isaacs' linrocomes close to tearing his hand off, but he gets to second in time to slap the old agate on Ritchie for the play.

Tech commits two double killings, one each in the eighth and ninth stanzas, by nice handling. And "Dear" Derr takes the starch out of what looks like a Tech rally in the eighth by robbing McKee of a triple with a great catch in center field. great catch in center field.

BAT LEADERS.

Double and single efforts in four times at the bat by McKee and Mizell are the best stick performances of the day, being good for even 500's. Holt, Roberts and Silsby tie it with a pair of singles each in their four chances. It's the last game for them boys. Florida is slated to play Oglethorpe, which is also in this Dixie College baseball league, at Oglethorpe today while Tech is host, as they say, to Auburn. Both games are openers of diso won last year by Chicago.

Oglethorpe's habit of allowing opponents to get an early lead was not in vogue in the closing game, the Stormy Petrels pounding Smith, tall Mercer pitcher, for four runs in the second and coming back in the fourth to knock him out of the box and continuing their rampage at the expense of Lawrence. The fourth-tinning rally netted three tallies, while Oglethorpe

There's a fellow up in North Carolina by the name of Burton H. Smith that does a lot of talkin' over the radio under the sub-title of "The Voice of the Out-of-Doors." He makes a lot of broad statements in counction with his broadcasts, and here's one that he told me the other day. So, accordin' to Burton Smith, there isn't any doubt but what sprayin' for boll weevil is takin' a big toll of quail every year.

There's been a lot of argument There's been a lot of argument about whether or not quail were gettin' killed on account of the farmers sprayin' poison on their cetton and from the above it sort of looks like maybe there's something to it. Like I said, this fellow Smith isn't in the habit of makin' statements that he can't back up, so, if he says he found these dead quail with boll weevil in 'em then it must be true.

Auburn Wins

From Georgia.

From Georgia.

ATHENS, Ga., April 23.—Take it from the Georgia Bulldogs, the Auburn Tigers have a great baseball club. The Tigers about proved it here today as they pounded out 14 hits and turned them into 13 runs to beat the Bulldogs, 13-7, for their second straight victory.

Aided by four Bulldog errors, the Tigers took a still firmer hold on the Dixie College league top position when they subdued the Bulldogs for the second time in two afternoons of baseball at Sanford field. The four Bulldog miscues and bad judgment at another crucial time accounted for five of the Auburn runs.

Lefty Simpson, Bulldog left hander, was touched by the Tigers for 14 hits. Red Hawkins, Auburn's pitcher, was nipped for 13 hits.

Joe Burt, Auburn right fielder, was the hero of the day with his home run, triple and single in five times at bat. Burt accounted for six of Auburn's runs, scoring twice and sending four more across the plate. Ray Fleming and Marion Gaston, of the Bulldogs, were next in the list of batting heroes with three hits apiece in four times at bat. Gaston hit two doubles and Fleming one.

The Bulldogs play Mercer here tomorrow, with either Catfish Smith or Lefty Hamilton in the box. Auburn moved on tonight for a series with Tech in Atlanta.

'Experts' Look Better As Crackers Step Up

Dobbers Spend Lonely Night in League Pent House; Look for More.

By Ralph McGill.

THERE is no use waiting a day or so to ring the bells and blow the whistles about the Crackers.

They happened to be lolling around in the penthouse atop this base ball circuit this morning. They have a great chance to stay around in that neighborhood for the rest of the summer. But this morning they are there. And no one spent the night with them. New Orleans and Little Rock, guests there Wednesday night, were kicked out Thursday of swart, laid low with a severely bruised hip, spent most of today posing his injuries before the X-ray camera here at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital. It was revealed that the Babe's muscle and nerve injuries were becoming less marked.

Ruth, confined to a hospital for the first time since 1925, when he had a stomach ailment, is gradually becoming reconciled to such confinement. Mrs. Ruth has prevailed upon him to be philosophical.

The physician, a specialist on bone structure, has ndvised Ruth to remain in the hospital for five days more and then rest for several weeks.

This plan meets with the approval of Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, who ordered the Babe to remain idle until he was positive his injury was completely healed.

McCarthy fears that the bruise may develon into a chronic "charles here."

NEW YORK, April 23.—It still is too early in the season to make any definite prophecies concerning the baseball races, but it already has become evident that certain teams are stronger than was supposed. In some instances this cuts down the expected difference between these clubs and those above them.

At the present moment, for example, it looks as if the American league race might be closer than the dopesters figured it, and as if the National league race might not be quite so open as it was believed it would be.

would be.

Before the season started, it was generally supposed that the Athletics and Washington would fight it out; that it would be a two-club race, with the other teams not very close. In the National league, St. Louis, Chicago, Brooklyn, New York and Pittsburgh all were thought to have a chance.

MACKS AND SENATORS.

The Mackman and Washington still all were thought to have a chance.

MACKS AND SENATORS.

The Mackmen and Washington still look the best in the American league, but it has become evident that they will get more opposition than was foreseen. Connie Mack has fine pitching, hard hitting, good fielding and a smart team. He also has a lot of reserve strength. Nevertheless, he must drive his team all the way and the fact that he must play every Sunday away from home doesn't help any. Washington looked strong in the training camp and looks even stronger now. The Senators generally are considered a hot weather club and the fact that they have been going well early in the year is significant.

There doesn't appear to be a doubt in the world that the Yankees are stronger than they were last year. They are playing more aggressive baseball and getting far better pitching. Cooke has been hitting. Lary has improved. Joe McCarthy has a good team and it looks as if he would get a lot out of it.

THE INDIANS.

Cleveland has as much reserve strength as any club in baseball. If Joe Vosmik keeps on hitting and some of those young pitchers come through, this young team is going to make a lot of trouble for its opponents before the race is over. All this means that the Athletics look as good as they were, Washington perhaps a bit stronger, and New York and Cleveland decidedly stronger. If this proves to be true, the result will be a tight race.

The St. Louis Browns have been a has at present a club which is the sur-prise and sensation of the league. In the south, Arthur Fletcher earnestly warned me to look out for Boston and it looks as if he had the dope.

St. Louis certainly is no stronger without Hafey, but the club is getting fine pitching, just as Gabby Street said it would, and the boys have been seeking the hell socking the ball.

with Wright, Thompson and Luque out, and Vance again absent and not in his best pitching condition, it is small wonder that Brooklyn has been doing badly. The pitchers are not pitching and the hitters haven't been hitting, but the Robins are strong and will be heard from later on. The trouble is that they will have considerable ground to make up. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia both need more and better pitching. The Cincinnati Reds need more and better hitting. And there you are.

"Lid Lifting" Tomorrow— "Club" to Initiate Big Class

National Celebrities Here for Ceremonial, Including "Doc Himself," D. I. Spenser, and "Cap" Puller— Law Promises "No Interference"

Much of the mystery of the proposed "social" club was cleared up today. This newspaper received, through its business office, an official announcement of the organizers, calling for volunteers as prospective members. The announcement appears elsewhere in this issue and is directed to "All ye who are weary, heavy laden and T-H-I-R-S-T-Y."

It is signed by "Doc Himself" (Grand Drink), D. I. Spenser (Chief Squirt), and "Cap" Puller (Master of the Bar.)

Contrary to popular belief, these gentlemen have proved to be high-class and law-abiding citizens. In no sense do they give the impression of bootleggers or denizens of the underworld. They contend that under the plan upon which their clubs are operated there is no violation of the law; that in many cities the membership includes law enforcement officers themselves, prominent ministers and members of prohibition enforcement organizations. Copies of the purposes and by-laws as well as the privileges and benefits were submitted to the management of this newspaper and after careful investigation nothing was found in the plan which can possibly be construed as a violation of the law. In fact, it may be that if drinking in this community can be regulated under the plan of this club, the community as a whole will be more temperate and better off. Those interested are directed to display announcement giving more details appearing immediately below.-Adv.

ATTENTION!

All Ye Who Are Weary, Heavy Laden and

THIRSTY

It is not a crime to drink. For those who know how to use it, the social glass is both a boon and a virtue. Our movement violates no law, either legal, moral or physical. We stand for law enforcement; abhor intoxication, and condemn vice and crime. No man, woman or child need compromise his conscience or stultify his moral character by becoming a member. Our plan has the hearty endorsement of ministers, temperance workers and law enforcement officers.

Watch Tomorrow's Paper

We will publish tomorrow in this paper a large advertisement, giving full details of the plan and directions for becoming a member. Watch for a large ad containing a picture of "Doc Himself" as shown in recent stories. Learn the mysteries and secrets, including purposes and by-laws, privileges and benefits, the official high signs, the official badge and membership card. You may now think you will be disappointed-but you won't.

the last person to see him alive. A few hours afterwards he was found shot through the heart. What choice have they?"

"Bue they cannot—it is mad! Crazy! D'Arblaye must have had a dozen enemies—he was that sort of man. Feodor—you have to go away? To England? You will be under arrest there?"

"Yes. Will you come over to London, Toni? It would be—easier—if I knew you were somewhere near."

"Oh, my dear!" her voice broke, but she steadied it, aware that she must not weaken him in the face of this dreadful thing. "Of course, I will come. At once. We will go to my uncle's—mother's brother, you know. Lord St. Maire. When do you expect to go?"

"Perhaps tonight. Certainly tomorrow. A couple of C. I. D. men have been telegraphed for."

Lord St. Maire, at all, gray-haired man, a year his sister's senior, with her dark eyes and charming smile, welcomed Toni and charming smile, welcomed Toni and the promother of the tragic reason that had brought them over to London, and himself took his niece up to the big fire-lit room on the second floor. He dismissed a maid, who was unpacking, till Toni should have had a rest.

"Try to sleep, dear," he said, and Toni smiled up at him.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(P)—The tock market had a rally today, but tot until a good bit of liquidation had een absorbed.

It was the most active session since 'ebruary and one of the most erration'. Te was the most active session since February and one of the most erratic. Volume jumped to 3,800,000 shares.
Closing prices showed a majority of small net gains among leading stocks, the advance in the 90-issue composite, which early in the afternoon had been at new 1931 low, amounting to half a point.

An early advance pulled prices up 100 point or two and an ensuing decline ent them 1 to 5 under the Wednesday

Just as sellers were pausing for breath General Motors Corporation made public its first quarter earnings statement, showing 61 cents a share against 57 cents in the last three months of 1930, and this comparatively good return appeared to have some influence on the covering that went forward in the last hour. Final prices, however, were under the highs of the morning advance.

United States Steel closed at 1271-4, up 3-4. General Motors, which had been down to 38-3-4, finished unchanged. American Telephone virtually recovered a 4-point break.

The investment market was worried by the performance of shares and reactions in all but the highest grade domestics gave the bond list a downward trend; second-grade rails led the decline. Grains also felt the effect of Wall Street selling. Wheat lost 1-4 to 13-8 net, while corn futures closed about a cent lower. Coiton gave up an early advance but closed steady, almost unchanged.

Strength of sterling cables, reflecting the recent cut in bankers' bills here, spread to other sections of the foreign exchange list, where rates were generally firm. The French francian.

or local and Wall Street selling which appeared to be stimulated by the early afternoon decline in stocks. July contracts, after selling up to 10.40 early, broke to 10.29 or 3 points net lower and closed at 10.31. The general market closed steady, net 1 point higher to 2 points lower.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 1 point and the market showed a generally steady tone during the early trading. Early cables from Liverpool were relatively easy, but prices there steadied up before New York opened. May contracts sold up to 10.14 and October to 10.77 with active months generally showing net advances of 8 to 9 points, but these prices seemed to bring in a little more selling and offerings increased, as the stock market eased off during the early afternoon. May dealized to 10.03 and October to 10.65 no particular incentives in the cotton trade news otherwise, and the day's fluctuations, while relatively narrow, appeared to follow the movements of the stock market quite closely.

Liverpool cables said that covering and continental buying in that market had been supplied by liquidation and Alexandria selling, and reported a poor demand for cotton cloths from India and China. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were unchanged to 23 points higher while the Indian spot quotation was 4 points lower. A private crop report issued here this morning, pointing to a decrease of 11.9

sold there owing to a reported bank failure there. Manchester cabled that the cloth demand was poor. First trades here showed gains of 3 points, but as the northern market opened lower the early gain here was lost. Prices soon rallied, however, on the weather and July traded as high as 10.41 and October at 10.77 up 8 points above the previous close.

NEW YORK. April 23.—Today's market turned out to be one of great irregularity rather than another period of steady decline such as seemed to be the case during the past two days.

There was an early rally of substantial proportions which, however, failed to hold and was followed by a decline to new lows in many of the leading stocks. Steet dipping fractionally below 125. Before the final hour, however, another and more convincing rally appeared which held to the close, leaving the industrial averages with a gain of almost a point while the ralls declined only fractionally.

During the day a flood of bearish rumors seemed to sweep over the Street very much in the way that seems to be cussively.

Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: May 5.41, July 5.48.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Market fluctuated over a range about 10 points and closed practically unchanged from last night. Initial prices were unchanged to slightly lower in response to poor cables, which were influenced by reports of banking troubles at Amsterdam. The outlook for unfavorable weather over the belt brought in considerable outside buying and there was a good demand from trade sources, as well as from the co-ops. Under this support, the market ralled about 10 points from early lows only to lose this gain on seiling by earlier buyers and continued pressure from local professionals, Wail Street and the south.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, April 23.—With the Liverpool market advancing at the time of local opening and about in line with due prices the cotion market opened 2 to 3 points higher probably due to the weather map showing low temperatures in the cotton region and an intense storm area in the Pacific west. The weather forecasts is for continued cold weather with probability of rains in the central and western portions of the belt. Offerings were liberal, but were readily absorbed by the trade and foreign and price-fixing, while there are said to be large trade buying orders just under the market. Co-operatives were reported as buying January and March, while Japanese interests were sellers of the new crop. There was considerable May liquidation.

WEATHER OUTLOOK

but these prices seemed to bring in a little more selling and offerings increased, as the stock market eased off during the early afternoon. May declined to 10,03 and October to 10.65, making net losses of about 2 to 3 points on the active months. The late market was a shade steadier with sympathy with the rally in stocks.

There was further criticism of low temperatures reported in the south, but on the whole the weather news was considered a little more favorable than it was yesterday and seemed to be without much effect either way on the market. Traders evidently found no particular incentives in the cotton trade news otherwise, and the day's fluctuations, while relatively narrow, if never the north portion; gentle variable with the relatively narrow, in extreme north portion; gentle variable with a filter more selling and offerings in a little more selling in a little more selling in the part of the selling in the selling in the part of the selling in the part of the selling in the part of the selling in the selling Neither a drop in the volume of wheat shipments from the Black sea and from Argentina nor reports that frost damage had shown itself in some of the tallest jointed fields of winter wheat between Liberal, Kan, and Dodge City, could aid the market.

Renewal of dry weather complaints from sections of spring crop terri-tory, both American and Canadian served at times to check wheat sell-ing. Old May wheat touched 81 1-2 cents, within half-cent of the pegged price that has been sustained by government-sponsored operations.

Stop-loss selling of corn and oad was in evidence, especially by holder

NEW YORK, April 23.—In view of the low status of brokerage loans, today's turnover of approximately 3,800,000 shares may be accepted as abnormally heavy. On this premise alone it is logical do expect that new bayers will appear in numbers if stocks are offered at concessions in the early trading today. A moderately higher opening would not be supprising and a continuation of today's rally is anticipated. No sustained advance is probable, however, while the run of first quarter earnings statements is in progress. A large part of the short interest was eliminated thursday and the technical position has been weakened correspondingly.

If you see an opportunity in the present prices of high-grade securities, here's a sound, convenient way to seize that opportunity . . . now. Borrow up to $6,000 from Morris Plan. Use the stocks or bonds you purchase to secure the loan. Then clear off your loan out of income, through twelve monthly payments.

At the end of a year, you own your securities outright. In the meantime, you enjoy the income from them and get the advantage of any increase in their market value.

During the term of your loan, should you consider it wise, you can of course sell your securities and pay your loan.

We do not sell stocks or bonds. Nor do we recommend any particular issues. But we are always glad to help investors. The amount we can advance on any security depends of course on the security itself. Our rates are as low as 6% discount. Come in today, or write for information.

Highlights Wall Street

Editor, the News Service of Wall Street. NEW YORK, April 23.-(NANA) NEW YORK, April 23.—(NANA) Wall Street went home today in a more cheerful frame of mind, owing to the development of a stronger undertone in the general list following the establishment of new low prices early in the day. The fact that some stocks, particularly General Motors, were taken in large blocks indicated that for the time being liquidation had been completed and that the market was due for a rally because of the existence of an oversold condition.

BY CHARLES W. STORM,

A mistrial in the case of W. G. Reid, white man charged with murder of John Cooper, negro, was declared Thursday in Fulton superior court. Cooper was slain in front of his home on Valentine street. The mistrial was declared when the jury announced its inability to agree after all night consideration of the case.

J. E. Hargis Thursday was fined $50 on a charge of operating a gambling machine. Hargis was one of a dozen defendants indicted on the missed meanor gambling machine charge Tuesday.

He existence of an oversold condition.

Early dealings were featured with a sharp break in Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing, due to a statement of earnings showing a loss of over $2,800,000 for the first quarter's operations of a preliminary statement of earnings showing 61 cents a share earned for General Motors during the first three months of this year was followed by the appearance of big buying orders in the stock. General Motors' figures were in line with recent predictions.

DAYLIGHT SAVING time likewise that of all dramatic programs to come over the Columbia network, he picks "Arabesque" as the best. And even if I hadn't received all those letters insisting upon its being reinstated, I'd have to defer to Mr. Clotworthy's judgment, because he has heard them all and should know whereof he speaks,

With this humorous pair for-ever begging for "problems," it's a wonder to me none of the Atlanta "sisters" have written to them. "sisters" have written to them. Surely there must be many a local "sister" who has a problem to solve. And it would be nice to hear Eddie and Ralph say: "From good old Atlanta—my old home town!"

The Oliver family is one of the most prominent in that section of south Georgia. The student who ended his life was the son of the late George Oliver and Mrs. Callie Coney Oliver. About 18 years ago, it was said, the elder Oliver shot and killed himself in his office in a large warehouse which he operated. The suicide was attributed to ill health. The elder Oliver dealt extensively in real estate and is said to have left a large estate to his family.

Classmates of the younger Oliver at Emory said the youth constantly was despondent and had a tendency toward the cynical at all times. After

A verdict of suicide by poison was returned Thursday by a DeKalb county coroner's jury investigating the death Wednesday night of Derry K. Oliver, 19-year-old sophomore of Emory University. Oliver collapsed in the living room of a fraternity house near the university, after having swallowed a potion said to have contained a deadly poison.

Previously, it was testified, a revolver with which he had threatened to end his life had been wrested from his possession by a fellow student, Gene Narden. Oliver was said to have been despondent over his arrest earlier Wednesday on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 this morning at the Americus, home of the student, where the body was taken Thursday. Interment will follow in the Oliver family cemetery at Americus.

Negro's Rich Bequest Vanishes Into Thin Air

The "fortune" of $31,500 that Willie B. Braddy, 51-year-old negro and self-styled Baptist preacher, told the world via Atlanta newspapers Tuesday he had inherited from the estate of his "former employer," the late Dr. William Rawlins, of Sandersville, Thursday turned out to be only a lot of misfortune so far as Willie is concerned.

Willie paid a stenographer in the law office of W. O. May $1.50 to type notices of his sudden affluence for distribution to Atlanta papers. But Thursday it was discovered that Dr. Rawlins will does not provide for a bequest to Braddy, and that in fact Braddy has never worked for the Rawlins family and is not known in Sandersville. Tuesday Braddy left town with the constitution. is not known in Sandersville. Tuesday Braddy left town with the announcement that he would return in a few days to invest in Atlanta real estate. So quickly do reverses follow on the heels of prosperity.

Sacred Play.

"Responsibilities and Rewards of Righteousness" is the title of a sa-cred play to be presented in three acts Monday night, April 27, at the Big Bethel A. M. E. church by the Mount Olive Church Club No. 9.
